INDEPENDENT COLLEGES

Thanks to a grant from the Council of Independent Colleges \(CIC\), Washington, through its CIC/UPS Educational Endowment, ACI will distribute $75,000 in scholarship funds this fall to member colleges and universities.

Ranko M. Jovicevic, left, of UPS with ACI Executive Director Mick Weltman. Jovicevic is also an ACI board member. Each of ACI's 25 member colleges and universities will be sent $3,000 for use during the 2018-2019 academic year as a scholarship to one full-time undergraduate student who is a first-generation, low-income, minority or new American student.

"We're pleased to provide these funds to our member colleges and universities for support of students on their campuses," said Mick Weltman, ACI executive director. "Part of ACI's mission is to support underserved students, and the CIC/UPS Scholarships Program helps us make a difference." In addition, Weltman said UPS has supported other ACI initiatives. Weltman recently expressed his thanks on behalf of ACI to Ranko M. Jovicevic, finance manager, UPS - Illinois District, and ACI Board of Trustees member.
