DESCRIPTION

Please join us for Associated Colleges of Illinois' HR, Diversity and Inclusion Leaders complimentary breakfast to be held Wednesday, Nov. 7, from 8 a.m. to 10 a.m. at the University Club of Chicago, 76 East Monroe Street.

Learn from the minds behind industry-leader TandemSpring how their unique strengths-based diversity and inclusion model allows individuals and teams to leverage character and cultural strengths to make D and I work a more inviting, dynamic, and continuously evolving journey for all involved. Large corporations, startups, universities and nonprofits have all benefited from TandemSpring's Cultural Strengths approach by making D and I transform from just another mandatory workshop to the enlightening and introspective journey it was always meant to be. The program will be introduced by Dr. Laurie Joyner, president, Saint Xavier University, Chicago.

Presenters, Monika Black and Tomer Yogev are the co-founders of TandemSpring, a Chicago-based executive coaching firm focused on strengths-based approaches to leadership development, diversity and inclusion and strategy optimization for leading organizations.

The breakfast is sponsored by Associated Colleges of Illinois which supports 25 colleges and universities, representing more than 70,000 students by advancing independent liberal arts and sciences education and helping underserved students succeed in college, career and life.
